In Between Spaces

The space in between birth and death is life. The space in between knowing and believing is something. I like the word mezzanine but I am not sure if it fits since by definition it relates to architecture. Interspace, on the other hand, sounds like something related to science fiction. Period is about time.

In writing, a space () is a blank area that separates words, sentences, syllables and other written or printed glyphs. Conventions for spacing vary among languages, and in some languages the spacing rules are complex. Typesetting uses spaces of varying length for specific purposes. The typewriter, on the other hand, can accommodate only a limited number of keys. Most typewriters have only one width of space, obtained by pressing the space bar. Following widespread acceptance of the typewriter,
